Ready to 'Return for Free'?

New HK Express Promotion Offers Round-trip Flights at One-way Prices

Hong Kong, 9 November 2015 Hong Kong's most on-time airline, HK Express, has just launched its latest deal for its lucky Guests and it is sure to be a crowd-pleaser. The upcoming "Return for Free" promotion is exactly what it sounds like: travellers get to book a round-trip flight at the price of a one-way ticket.

HK Express, as Hong Kong's low-fare airline, introduced a similar promotion early this year, which proved to be a roaring success and is ready for round two. The latest incarnation this November will offer yet another chance to enjoy affordable flights to the most popular destinations in Asia.

When Guests book the deal on the website between 00:00 on 10 November and 11:59pm on 12 November, they can travel anytime between 17 November 2015 and 29 October 2016.

So where will these 'Return for Free' deals take the Guests to? Almost anywhere in the HK Express network! That means fantastic fares on new routes such as Hiroshima and Siem Reap are covered for the taking. Guests may also choose to explore longtime favourites such as Tokyo and Osaka, explore the oft-overlooked city of Busan in South Korea, or take a beach break in Da Nang.

To meet the increasing demand for Christmas travel, HK Express is boosting its flight frequency to popular vacation destinations. These include a total of additional 8 weekly flights to the best-loved vacation destinations ranging from Chiang Mai, the mountain sanctuary in Thailand, to the cosmopolitan Nagoya, and to Siem Reap the epicentre of chic Cambodia, which undoubtedly allows Guests to enjoy the best winter trip this Christmas.

"We are thrilled to be able to offer these great fares and further shake up the regional airline industry in Asia," said Andrew Cowen, CEO of HK Express. "We hope that deals like this will encourage more travel lovers to experience incredible destinations such as Hiroshima, a brand new route that we just launched at the end of October."
